

Law Society Panel of Mediators as at November 2022

The Law Society Panel of Mediators has been established to assist both the legal profession and the public when the services of a mediator are required.

The National Mediator Accreditation System (NMAS) is an industry system which identifies national standards of practice and competencies for mediators in Australia. Although the national system is voluntary, it has gained wide acceptance. For a full copy of the National Register please refer to the NMAS.
